

ASSIGNMENT 1 · BRAND INTRODUCTION

Off Hours

What begins when work ends.

A melatonin-free night-drink ritual for over-wired urban professionals.

CATEGORY

D2C sleep & recovery: functional night-drink sachets, melatonin-free

PRODUCT

Magnesium + L-theanine + chamomile night drink. 10-night trial kit, then a monthly 30-night refill

MARKET

Mumbai + Bengaluru, India. Sold and delivered from our own storefront

PRICE

Premium ritual: ₹999 trial kit (10 nights) · ₹1,899 / month subscription (≈₹63 a night). Planned prices

A ritual in a glass, not a pill

What we offer

A drug-free wind-down ritual: one sachet, warm water, lights low. A 10-night trial kit, then a monthly 30-night refill.

Problem we solve

Professionals 25–40 finish work at 9–10 pm still wired, then scroll, snack and sleep badly. Melatonin feels medical; chamomile tea feels weak.

What makes us different

Melatonin-free and ingredient-forward. A ritual, not a pill. Proof built in: a 10-night trial judged by your own mornings, cancel in one click.

Competitors & alternatives

Melatonin gummies (e.g. Bold Care, Nutriburst, Nutrazee; listed at about ₹450–800 per 30). Herbal sleep teas. Wellness apps. Doing nothing and scrolling.

Strategic stance: we compete with the habit of not switching off, and price as a premium ritual (under a café coffee a night), not against ₹15 gummies.

One primary business goal

1,000

active subscribing households by month 12
of launch, in Mumbai and Bengaluru

That is roughly ₹19 lakh in monthly recurring revenue at ₹1,899.

A business outcome, not a marketing activity

It states the customer base the business wants: recurring revenue from people who stay. Marketing's job (next slide) is the measurable path there.

Why this goal

A D2C subscription business compounds on retention. "Active" households, not orders or sign-ups, is the number that funds every later stage of growth.

Two SMART objectives that reach 1,000

ACQUIRE

800

trial-kit orders / month by month 6

≥20%

of trialists subscribe within 30 days

≥15%

of trial orders via referral or peer share

RETAIN

≤8%

monthly subscriber churn (≥75% still active at month 3)

PROJECTED ACTIVE SUBSCRIBERS

How this supports the goal: 800 trials × 20% adds ~160 subscribers a month; at 8% churn the base reaches ~1,100 by month 12 (about 10% above goal).

Over-wired professionals, not insomniacs

Demographics

25–40, single or young-couple households; degree-educated professionals in tech, finance, consulting, media. Mumbai (Powai, Lower Parel, Andheri) and Bengaluru (Indiranagar, Koramangala, HSR).

Income / spending power

₹12L+ household income; already pays for convenience and self-care (food delivery, gym apps, streaming). ₹999 is an impulse-try; ₹1,899 a month is about one dinner out.

Psychographics

Evidence-seeking wellness sceptics. Interests: productivity, longevity, fitness. Values: control, proof, autonomy. Wants better mornings more than “sleep”. Ambitious, burning the candle, allergic to hype.

Behaviour

Shops online several times a week; discovers via short video and group chats; reads reviews before ingesting anything. Uses today: chamomile tea, gummies (often dropped), scrolling. Buys a wellness staple monthly; subscribes only after a good trial.

Not our audience: insomniacs seeking clinical treatment · price-first supplement buyers · anyone outside the two cities in phase 1

Meet Meera

Meera Nair, 32

Product manager, Series-B startup
Koramangala, Bengaluru
₹18–24 LPA

"I don't have a sleep problem. I have a switching-off problem. Show me something simple that actually works and I'll stick with it."

LIFESTYLE

Stand-ups at 10 am, deep work at night. Orders in 4–5 nights a week; series and scrolling till 1 am; alarm at 7:30.

GOALS

Wake up clear-headed without another pill; feel in control of her evenings again.

MOTIVATIONS

Visible morning energy, a ritual that feels like hers, evidence over promises.

ONLINE BUYING BEHAVIOUR

Trials first; checks ingredients and reviews; pays by UPI; subscribes after one good full box; cancels in one click if annoyed.

INTERESTS

Productivity systems, longevity content, café coffee, weekend treks.

PAIN POINTS

3–4 hours of "junk time"; groggy mornings; wary of gummies; hates auto-renew traps.

FAVOURITE PLATFORMS

Instagram Reels, YouTube deep-dives, WhatsApp groups, Reddit India, a good newsletter.

Meera's journey, from trigger to advocacy

Stage	Consumer behaviour	Digital touchpoints	Questions / concerns	Potential friction
Need / Trigger	1 am, wired, dreading the 7:30 alarm; resolves to fix it	Late-night scroll, notes app, group-chat venting	"Why can't I just switch off?"	Feelings, not words: nothing to search for
Discovery	Sees short-video content on wind-down rituals	Reels/shorts, creator newsletters, Reddit	"Real category or snake oil?"	Ad blindness; scepticism at first contact
Research	Googles ingredients; reads label breakdowns and reviews	Search, brand site, YouTube, Reddit	"What's in it? Anything habit-forming?"	Thin or jargon-heavy info kills trust
Consideration	Compares trial vs gummies vs tea; checks price per night	Product page, reviews, comparison content, WhatsApp	"Is ₹999 for 10 nights worth it?"	Price framing without a per-night anchor
Purchase	Orders trial kit; UPI one-tap; expects 2-day delivery	Own storefront, UPI checkout, order confirmations	"Arrives before the weekend? Easy returns?"	Clunky checkout; forced account creation
Experience	Uses sachets for 10 nights; judges by her mornings, not "sleep"	Pack insert, WhatsApp morning check-ins, sleep-journal letter	"Working, or placebo? When do I decide?"	No usage guidance; silence after delivery
Loyalty / Advocacy	Converts to subscription; tells the group chat	WhatsApp concierge, referral link, subscriber letter	"Anything for staying? For sharing?"	Pushy upsells; hard-to-cancel = trust killer

Earn, prove, keep

EARN

Short-form ritual content and search answer the trust questions.

PROVE

A ₹999 trial and morning check-ins let her judge on her own mornings.

KEEP

A cancel-anytime subscription and a referral loop.

WHO, WHAT AND WHY

We target evidence-seeking professionals 25–40 in Mumbai and Bengaluru who don't think they have a sleep problem, and meet them in the moment they feel it: late, wired, dreading the alarm. We want them to think “this is a simple ritual made for my actual nights,” and to do one thing: try the 10-night kit. Retention comes before reach; every channel exists to turn a trial into a habit, then a subscription.

HOW THE CHANNELS WORK TOGETHER

Short video and search earn first attention; the storefront converts; the owned layer (pack insert, WhatsApp morning check-ins, sleep-journal letter) carries her through the 10-night judgement window into a subscription and a referral. Paid only amplifies what already works: boosting content that performs and re-finding warm visitors. Partnerships and mass awareness come in phase two.

Four media types, one system

P Paid

Boosts top-performing creator and ritual content; retargets site visitors and video viewers. Later, sponsored placement in quick-commerce listings.

PRIMARY JOB

Amplify proven messages; re-find warm audiences.

E Earned

Wellness editors and newsletters covering “switch-off” culture; the founding story: built melatonin-free for India’s late-working cities.

PRIMARY JOB

Third-party credibility the ingredient-sceptic trusts.

S Shared

Customers posting night-routine rituals; 10-night challenge check-ins; referral links in group chats.

PRIMARY JOB

Turn the ritual into social proof and peer recommendation.

O Owned

Storefront and product pages, WhatsApp concierge (opt-in), sleep-journal email letter, pack inserts.

PRIMARY JOB

The retention spine: where trials become subscribers.

Together: Earned and Shared create believable first contact; Owned converts and keeps; Paid only accelerates what the others prove. Spend follows proof, never precedes it.

Six priorities, and what we deliberately skip

	Instagram Reels + short video	DISCOVERY	Where the audience unwinds at 10 pm; ritual content formats natively.
	Search (brand site + category articles)	TRUST & RESEARCH	Ingredient questions are the trust gate; the brand must answer them itself.
	Own storefront + UPI checkout	CONVERSION	Low-friction ₹999 trial; owns the data a subscription model needs.
	WhatsApp concierge (opt-in)	PROOF & RETENTION	Consented, India-native, high-open: morning check-ins, refill timing, questions.
	Email sleep-journal letter	EXPERIENCE & ADVOCACY	The 10-night judgement window needs a guide; letters out-sell loud campaigns.
	Meta retargeting (paid)	RECAPTURE	Re-finds warm visitors and boosts proven content; never leads.

DELIBERATE NON-PRIORITIES

TV & print Wrong age, wrong moment, unmeasurable.	Mass display bursts Awareness money lands before trial intent exists.	Celebrity blitzes Borrowed attention; wrong trust mechanic for an ingested product.	Marketplace-ad reliance We won't rent the brand's first impression.
---	---	---	---

One connected loop, no dead ends

Every channel hands the customer to the next with context attached. Owned channels carry the relationship through the 10-night judgement window (Experience, slide 7).

Five choices that define the strategy

- | | | |
|---|---|--|
| 1 | Primary consumer: evidence-seeking urban professionals | Wired, not insomniac: 25–40, Mumbai + Bengaluru, feels a switching-off problem, not yet a “sleep problem”. |
| 2 | Retention before reach | Earn, prove, keep. Success is measured in active subscribers and churn, not impressions. |
| 3 | The 10-night trial is the proof | Customers judge on their own mornings via check-ins, and can cancel in one click, so trust is built in. |
| 4 | A ritual, not medicine | Positioned against the habit of not switching off. No treatment claims; ingredient transparency does the persuading. |
| 5 | Search and short video earn; owned channels convert and keep | Partnerships and mass awareness wait for pull signals; paid amplifies only what already works. |

The four-question test

What do you sell?

A melatonin-free night-drink sachet: a 10-night trial kit and a monthly 30-night refill subscription.

Who is it for?

Evidence-seeking urban professionals 25–40 in Mumbai and Bengaluru who can't switch off after late workdays.

What problem does it solve?

Evenings that never downshift: wired minds, junk-time scrolls, groggy mornings.

Why would someone choose you?

A simple, non-medical ritual with honest ingredients, and a trial that lets you judge it on your own mornings, with one-click cancel.

Scope note: strategy-level plan only. No campaign calendars, keyword lists, influencer lists, media budgets, creatives or dashboards at this stage, per the brief.

What could go wrong, and how we handle it

Premium price vs gummies

Gummies list at about ₹450–800 per 30. We hold premium positioning with the ₹63-a-night anchor and a low-commitment trial, and test price framing early.

20% trial-to-subscription is an assumption

If the first 60 days land nearer 15%, the base reaches about 830 at month 12. We fix the trial experience before scaling any spend.

Claims discipline

Wellness and ritual language only: no treatment or medical claims. Ingredient transparency is the persuasion.

Two-city delivery promise

The 2-day promise is only made where fulfilment can hold it. A broken promise costs more trust than a slower one.
