
OFF HOURS

Assignment 2 — Content & Social Media Strategy

What begins when work ends.

A continuation of the Assignment 1 deck

Mumbai + Bengaluru · 10-sachet night drink · melatonin-free

Assignment 2 · Content & Social Media Strategy · submission 5 October 2026

Where we stand — inherited from Assignment 1

- Retention before reach — the 10-night trial is the decision window, not the acquisition vanity metric.
- An understated, proof-led launch — the audience is an evidence-seeking wellness sceptic, not a hype audience.
- We compete with the habit of not switching off — not with pharmacies.
- Deliberately delayed: celebrity blitzes, mass display, TV and print, marketplace-ad dependence, and partnership pushes.
- Persona: Meera Nair, 32, Product Manager, Koramangala. Trials first, reads ingredients, cancels in one click.

1 • Content Marketing Objective

Make Off Hours the brand people go to when the evening won't switch off.

— Primary — Build awareness of the moment, not of a claim.

Recognition of the 10 pm problem comes before any product belief.

— Primary — Educate consumers and own the ingredient question.

The trust gate for an ingested product is the label; answering it is our right to sell.

— Secondary — engagement, community, traffic, conversion support.

Each is a means here, not a headline goal.

— Why not more? Awareness gives recognition; education gives permission. Everything else is downstream of those two.

2 • Brand Story & Communication

The core idea: a landing, not a pill.

- Calm — never urgent, never a countdown. The evening is not a sale to be closed.
- Plain-spoken — ingredient answers in ordinary words. No clinical jargon, no wellness poetry.
- Evidence-led — show the label, the quantity, the reason. Facts, never feelings.
- Quietly warm — as if to one tired person, not to a market.
- Sample line: “You don’t have a sleep problem. You have a landing problem.”
- Never: preachy, alarmist, medical-sounding, countdowns, streaks, competitive sneering.

3 • Content Pillars

Five pillars, each with a function.

Pillar	Function	Example	Why Meera cares
Plain Labels	Education & trust	What magnesium glycinate does — in 40 seconds	She reads labels anyway
The Landing	Awareness	10 pm, laptop closed, brain still on	It describes her night exactly
Quiet Proof	Credibility	Unedited testimonials, including lukewarm ones	Evidence beats promises
After Hours	Depth & loyalty	The sleep-journal letter	She wants the long version
We Won't	Differentiation	Six claims we refuse to make	Refusals are believable

Rotation rule: every piece belongs to exactly one pillar. If it doesn't fit a pillar, it doesn't go out.

4 • Platform Strategy

Three surfaces, chosen on audience behaviour.

Platform	Behaviour	Role	Formats
Instagram	Scrolls Reels at 10 pm	Awareness: name the moment	Reels, carousels, Stories Q&A;
YouTube	Watches to research	Education: own the ingredient answer	6-8 min long-form + Shorts
WhatsApp + e-mail	Consented, private, read-later	Retention: hold the 10-night window	Plain-text notes, letters

Deliberately not in the plan: TV and print · mass display · celebrity blitzes · marketplace-ad dependence · alarm and outrage formats.

5 • One Idea, Different Platforms

Night 1 of 10 — the first landing.

- The idea never changes; only the behaviour does.
- Instagram — 25-second landing film: the kitchen at night, laptop closed, no voiceover, one line at the end.
She sees it.
- YouTube — 6-8 minute explainer plus a 45-second cut: what is in the sachet, plainly, including what it does not do.
She understands it.
- WhatsApp + e-mail — one plain-text note per night for ten nights; night one asks one question.
She lives it.
- Every piece points to the next surface. The referral link closes the loop back to discovery.

6 • Content Concepts

Six concepts — idea → pillar → platform → format → objective.

PROOF, NOT PROMISES • OFF HOURS

WHAT WE WON'T SAY ABOUT OUR OWN PRODUCT

Six claims we refuse to make — and why.

OH 2/6

Concept 3, “Six things we refuse to say” — carousel slide 2 of 6.

Design direction: warm off-white ground, one burnt-orange accent, editorial serif headline. No badge, no arrow, no urgency device.

1 • What magnesium glycinate actually does

Plain Labels • Instagram carousel • education + saves

2 • We read our own label out loud

Plain Labels • YouTube long-form • education + trust

3 • Six things we refuse to say about our own product

We Won't • Instagram carousel • differentiation + shares

4 • Night 1 of 10 — the landing film

The Landing • Instagram Reel • awareness

5 • The shelf — customers' own notes, unranked

Quiet Proof • Instagram + private channel • trust

6 • Ask us about the label

Plain Labels • Stories Q&A; → video • engagement + education

Concept 4 — the Reel key frame with timing margin.

Shot discipline: one continuous take in a dim kitchen, single lamp source, hands and objects only, no faces; music only in the middle beat.

The landing film — storyboard beats

25 seconds, one continuous shot

0-5s · A laptop is closed and pushed aside. Room tone only. No music.

5-15s · A hand sets down one sachet and a glass of warm water. Slow, unhurried.

15-25s · Opened, poured, stirred once. Camera holds; the only text is the last line.

On-screen text at 20-25s: NIGHT 1 OF 10.

Why 25 seconds: the audience is scrolling at the exact hour the film shows; the idea must land in three seconds and remain saveable for tonight.

7 • Hero Content / Campaign

The 10-Night Landing — the trial window becomes the campaign.

- Insight — her problem is not sleep, it is the twenty minutes between closing the laptop and getting to bed.
- Big idea — ten nights, ten small pieces, one per night, each a landing rather than a lesson.
- Key message — “We’re not asking you to sleep earlier. We’re asking you to land better.”
- Arc — name the moment → answer the question → hold the ten nights → let the proof speak.
- Why this hero: it turns the brand's hardest metric, the trial-to-subscription window, into content.

8 • Community & Engagement

Followers become participants by being asked for something they already give.

- Ask-the-coach, answered in public — no question too basic, including the awkward ingredient ones.
- The Shelf — customers' own night notes, unranked and unedited. Inclusion, never competition.
- Quiet Testimony — reviews in the customer's own words; any edit visibly marked.
- The 10-Night Check-in — one private question a night; no scoreboard, no streak to lose.
- Refused: competitive challenges and duets · alarm-driven live formats · announcements broadcast through community channels.

9 • Influencer / Creator Strategy

Fit is a teaching-and-trust test, not a reach test.

	Creator A	Creator B
Who	Shabbir Ahmed — Sleep Psychologist, Navi Mumbai	Shruti Maheshwari — co-founder, Sleep Gurukul, Mumbai
Credibility	CBT-I practice; author, The Sleep Foundations; MA Psychology; doctoral research	Sleep & wellbeing coach, breath-work; practice recognised at the BW Wellbeing Festival, Mumbai
Audience	Adults seeking behavioural answers, not chemical ones	Indian professionals, metro, breath-work and routine-led
Why fit	The purest carrier of Plain Labels: method-led, explicitly against hacks and unfounded claims	Carries The Landing: teaches the ritual a product cannot demonstrate; India-native practice
Role	Flagship educator: one explainer, one label review, one Q&A;	Ritual partner: guided ten-night wind-down series; Phase 2 corporate bridge

Filters first, names second: teaching ratio · private-engagement ratio · reply tone · disclosure comfort. Open checks: category conflicts, disclosure line, Mumbai/Bengaluru audience share.

10 • Two-Week Content Calendar

Ten pieces, four deliberate quiet days.

Day	Platform	Content	Format	Pillar
1 · Mon	YouTube	We read our own label out loud (anchor)	Long-form 7 min	Plain Labels
2 · Tue	—	Quiet day	—	—
3 · Wed	Instagram	What magnesium glycinate actually does	Carousel (5)	Plain Labels
4 · Thu	Instagram	Night 1 of 10 — the landing film	Reel 25s	The Landing
5 · Fri	Instagram	Ask us about the label — weekly answers	Stories Q&A;	Plain Labels
6 · Sat	WhatsApp + e-mail	Night 5 check-in: what time did your evening end?	Plain-text note	After Hours
7 · Sun	—	Quiet day	—	—
8 · Mon	YouTube	Why this is not a sleeping pill (anchor)	Long-form 6 min	Plain Labels
9 · Tue	Instagram	Six things we refuse to say about our product	Carousel (6)	We Won't
10 · Wed	—	Quiet day	—	—
11 · Thu	Instagram	The shelf — customers' own night notes	Carousel (6)	Quiet Proof
12 · Fri	Instagram	Short cut of Monday's anchor	Short 45s	Plain Labels
13 · Sat	WhatsApp + e-mail	Night 10: one thing that changed, one that didn't	Note + referral link	Quiet Proof
14 · Sun	—	Quiet day	—	—

Cadence rationale: the brand's job is a habit, not a feed. Four quiet days are a decision, not a gap. One anchor and one visual piece per week; paid only amplifies messages already proven organically.

11 • Measurement & Success

Seven metrics, each tied to an objective — one of them negative.

#	Objective	KPI	Healthy signal	Cadence
1	Awareness	Reach: Reels vs search arrivals	Search arrivals grow faster than Reels reach	Monthly
2	Education	Saves and returns on label explainers	Explainers are the most-saved content	Monthly
3	Consideration	Completion rate on long-form	The "not a pill" film completes best	Monthly
4	Trust	Private interactions: saves, DM questions, replies	Private at least equals public	Monthly
5	Conversion support	Trial starts from discovery and search	Rising, with a healthy source mix	Monthly
6	Retention	Night-5 and night-10 check-in participation	A meaningful share reply or stay	Every 10 nights
7	Health (stop signal)	Argument threads and complaint mentions	Flat or falling	Monthly

Month one: working if saves lead, private responses equal public ones, check-ins are answered and argument threads stay flat. Not working if reach rises while saves stall.

Continuity, risks and what would change our mind

Every choice here traces back to Assignment 1 — and every risk is named.

- Viable alternative on record: an education-first, newsletter-led plan. It is fully compliant; it simply leaves the display surface idle. The margin is narrow (0.84 vs 0.82) and stated.
- Risk 1 — the quiet channel is favourable but slow: judge it across a full cycle, not a month.
- Risk 2 — restraint can become inaudibility: display content carries reach, and reach is tracked.
- Risk 3 — partnership announcements under-deliver in alliance channels: those channels stay two-way.
- Risk 4 — creator conflicts and audience geography are unverified: three checks run before contracting.
- Strategy first. Design second. Every creative decision has a reason — and the reason is always the same: this brand exists to end the day, not to win the feed.
